12.00 Peter Ransome LKS Manager James Paget Hospital & Ali Thayne Dementia Lead - Collaboration between the Hospital Library services and Dementia teams at James Paget University NHS Hospital Foundation providing improved services for dementia patients New innovative services for Dementia patients are based on empirical research provided through literature searches and article requests. These services are embedded within the library services team

13:30 Dr Ruth Carlyle Head of Library and Knowledge Services, HEE Midlands and East. - Working with voluntary sectors and providing Public Patient Information

Breakout session descriptions:

Pop-up libraries – Join Ian Rennie LKS Manager Fulbourn for a session on reaching beyond the library. With distributed users and bust staff schedules, librarians need to reach users who never set foot in the library itself. When the user won't come to the library, the library can come to the user. This session shows how to set up and implement a "pop up library" kit, with hints and tips on how to pair this with training and outreach.

Technology Jam – Join John Barbrook Head of Library and Learning Resources Luton and Dunstable University Hospital and Rebecca Phillips Clinical Outreach Librarian Papworth Hospital for a session to explore technological tips and best practice to make the most of new technologies in your library. Bring your iPad or Android device!

Sharing best practice – Join Pip Divall Clinical Librarian Service Manager Leicester Hospitals. The great and innovative work of libraries is often lost or has to be re-done because it hasn't been shared with others. This session looks at how to better share knowledge and practice between libraries.

Revalidation for Nurses – With Jane Cooper & Catherine McLaren - In April 2016 the Nursing and Midwifery Council introduced a new 3 yearly revalidation process for all nurses and midwives. This has provided an opportunity for library services to build relationships with the nursing and midwifery communities. We look at how 2 NHS Trust library services have responded to the opportunity.

CASH – Heather Gardner presents Collaborate Current Awareness with CASH

The Current Awareness Service for Health (CASH) is a collaborative service provided by a network of librarians and knowledge managers in the health sector who monitor and capture content from across a range of subject areas. This collaborative working model helps to avoid duplication of effort. Come along to this workshop to see how easy it is to enter information and use various outputs to produce professional looking bulletins with minimal effort!

New HEE-funded info skills modules –Join Preeti Puligari to find out about free, bite-sized information skills e-learning modules and have an opportunity to consider how they could be used to extend training to more groups/incorporate them into blended learning.
