

Collaborating for the Environment

Working Together to Dispose of Old Books in an Environmentally Friendly Way

Working With

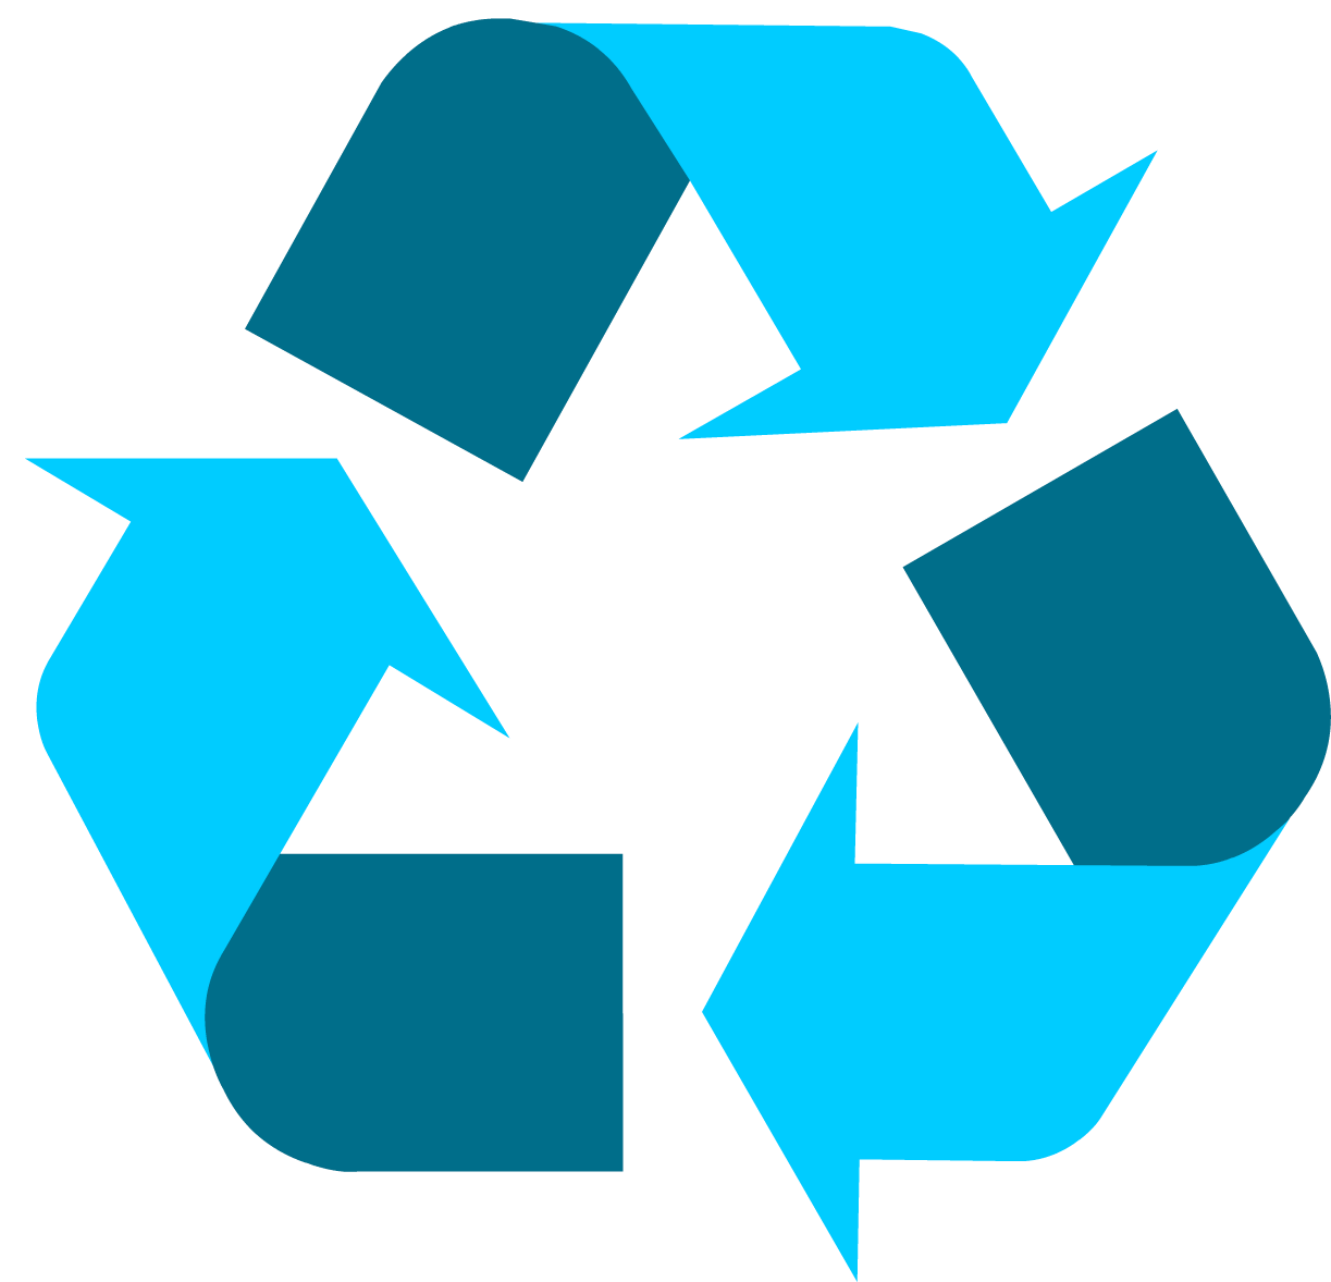

The Problem

Library textbooks reach their end of useful life on a regular basis. Books the Library could not resell or recycle went to landfill. This wasn't very environmentally friendly and we wanted a way to dispose of them that was less wasteful.

The Solution

We were contacted by Better World Books who will take the books away and either sell them or donate them to literacy charities. The Library get a small percentage of money raised from book sales and books that can't be sold or donated get turned into animal bedding.

Progress So Far

In just two months we have prevented over 400 books from going to landfill. Word has spread to other departments in our Trust and we are accepting old books from them that we can send to Better Word Books along with our own.

Contact better World Books: library@betterworldbooks.co.uk.

www.betterworldbooks.co.uk

James Allen (ACLIP) Senior Library Technician
West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust
james.allen11@nhs.net